ASPIRING FOR HIGHER GOALS

As the poll schedule for the five election-bound states has been announced by the Election Commission, political activities have further intensified in these states. In the coming month of November, people are going to vote in Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh, Telangana, and Mizoram to elect their governments. While Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi, BJP National President Shri JP Nadda, and Union Home and Cooperation Minister Shri Amit Shah have been addressing massive rallies in these states, the support for the BJP can be seen increasingly on the ground. The people are looking forward to extending their support to the BJP as they experience transformational change in their lives in the last nine years of the Modi government, which has catapulted the nation onto the global stage. The Prime Minister's call for 'Viksit Bharat' based on the resolve of 'panch pran' is inspiring the nation, which is moving forward with the mantra of 'Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas, Sabka Prayas'. The dream of 'Viksit Bharat' can be realised when state governments too march ahead with the same vision, in the same direction, and with similar resolve, which is only possible under the dynamic leadership of Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi and the BJP governments in these states.

The dream of 'Viksit Bharat' can be realised when state governments too march ahead with the same vision, in the same direction, and with similar resolve, which is only possible under the dynamic leadership of Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi and the BJP governments in these states

The historic performance of India in the Asian Games has once again made every Indian proud. As India won 107 medals, including 28 gold, 38 silver, and 41 bronze, it secured medals in three digits for the first time, scripting a tale of remarkable achievements. It once again proves that when the policy, intention, and endeavour are all right, success is bound to follow. It shows the newfound confidence that powers the youth of today to aim higher and higher while achieving what appeared unimaginable a few years ago. It also points to the fact that if talents in India are given opportunities and facilities, they will always prove their mettle in any international competition. This was exactly done by 'Khelo India' programs, which, while offering competition, gave exposure at various levels and even financial support to the aspiring youth. Its various verticals like state-level Khelo India centres, annual sports competitions, talent search and development, sports for women, support to national, regional, and state sports academies, promotion of sports among persons with disabilities, promotion of rural and indigenous/tribal games, and physical fitness of school-going children are now taking Indian sports to a new level of competitiveness and professionalism. There is a massive change in the sporting culture, which now not only focuses on nurturing promising talents at the grass-roots level but also aims to end nepotism, bribery, and corruption in the game. While the performing youth are not bereft of funds as required financial support, infrastructural facilities, and other requirements are in place, the talents in every department of sports are being promoted and encouraged. It is the result of the grand vision of Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi that a huge transformation in the work culture is witnessed in every sector, with a strong urge for reform that has rejuvenated the entire system. The increasingly high performance of India's youth in various national and international sporting events is a result of an improved work culture that identifies the best talents, nurtures, supports, and encourages them, and creates an atmosphere where their hard work pays off.

While the nation is celebrating the outstanding performances of the sportspersons in the recently held Asian Games in Hougzhou, China, the mood is still upbeat in the country due to the successful launch of Chandrayan-3, Aditya L-1, and the grand success of the G-20 Summit. While India is marching ahead under the dynamic and charismatic leadership of Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi, the people of India are aspiring for higher goals, powering the urge to become a developed country. ■

'Apno Rajasthan - Sujhav Aapka-Sankalp Hamara' campaign launched

PM's report cards transformed political culture: JP Nadda

BJP National President Shri JP Nadda on 04 October, 2023 said the BJP had transformed the culture of politics with Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi's report cards. Promises made were fulfilled. "Whatever we said, we have done. We have also delivered what we did not pledge," he said.

Shri Nadda was addressing a huge gathering of BJP Karyakartas at B.M. Birla Auditorium in Jaipur before the launch of party's 'Apno Rajasthan- Sujhav Aapka Sankalp Hamara' campaign seeking suggestions from people for the party's manifesto for the upcoming Assembly election in Rajasthan.

The Congress promoted a culture of making attractive promises, forgetting them after elections and then contesting the next polls with a new set of promises, Shri Nadda said, affirming that all of this had changed under the BJP's rule at the Centre. Report card politics had ensured people's welfare in the true spirit, he added.

Empower the poor

The BJP National President said Congress rule was synonymous with "loot, appeasement and corruption", while his party intended to empower the poor and destitute, protect women, secure the future of the youth and spread prosperity amongst farmers. The BJP was serving the people with good governance and honest service, he said. The purpose of soliciting people's opinion was to set a target for the future through the election manifesto, rather than presenting it just as a political document, Shri Nadda said before flagging off the Rathes which will collect suggestions from the public.

To collect suggestions from the public

Fifty-one trucks converted into chariots will visit the tehsil headquarters in all districts to get suggestions. A toll-free telephone number and a dedicated web portal for collecting suggestions were also launched on the occasion. The Rathes will visit the tehsil headquarters in all districts to get suggestions.

Hundreds of saffron-colour bikes were given to the party workers to travel along with the Rath with each vehicle annexed with a box in which the public can put their written opinions. This is BJP's fourth campaign after Jan Aakrosh Yatra, Nahi Sahega Rajasthan, and Parivartan Sankalp Yatra to connect voters from far-flung areas of the state.

Rajasthan will become stronger with your suggestions

Speaking to party workers Shri Nadda further said, "Rajasthan will become stronger with your suggestions. This resolution letter is not a document at all. This is our goal, which we have to accomplish. Congress ruled for a long time. The culture of Congress was that their leaders would apply lime in the forest and tell the public that a road would emerge from there. The innocent public accepted it in elections only to feel cheated later," he observed.

Criticizing the Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot's "Mission-2030" whose posters and banners are displayed on city roads, Shri JP Nadda categorically said, "Gehlot Saheb, 2023 comes before 2030. Have you forgotten the count? Gehlot Saheb, you will get Gulati." Union Minister and convener of the BJP's manifesto committee, Shri Arjun Ram Meghwal, explained the process of getting ideas and suggestions from different sections of society and incorporating them into the document.

KCR never worked for the poor: Amit Shah

Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrasekhara Reddy never worked for the poor but only concentrated on how to make his son K T Rama Reddy the CM of the state, in the past 10 years of his rule, Union Home Minister Shri Amit Shah said on 10 October, 2023.

Addressing a huge public rally in Adilabad, Telangana Shri Shah said the BRS government in the state did not fulfill the poll promises such as double bedroom housing for tribals.

"KCR's aim is only to make his son as CM. But the BJP's aim is to ensure that every tribal of Adilabad gets education, jobs and also water for the farmers," Shri Shah said.

"You have two choices. One is the KCR government which thinks of his son and daughter and on the other hand you have Prime Minister Narendra Modi who thinks of Dalits, poor and adivasis," he said.

Telangana needs a double engine government. That means the Modi government at the Centre as well as in the state. He exuded confidence that under the leadership of PM Modi, BJP will form the government in Telangana, apparently after the November 30 Assembly polls.

The Union Home Minister said Telangana has become number one in farmers' suicides and crime against women and children.

He said AIMIM chief and Hyderabad MP Asaduddin Owaisi has the 'steering' of KCR's car, which is the election symbol of the ruling BRS party. He accused that KCR government is being run on the directions of Majlis (AIMIM).

"Do you want Telangana to run on the directions of Majlis," Shri Amit Shah asked the public and appealed them to dethrone the KCR government and elect a BJP dispensation.

The Congress government had earlier dragged the construction of Ram temple in Ayodhya. However, PM Shri Narendra Modi took the initiative to construct the shrine and the grand temple will be ready by January, 2024, Shri Amit Shah added. ■

Noteworthy, there are about 18,000 Indian nationals living and working in Israel and so far, there have been no untoward incidents reported involving them. The Indian mission in Tel Aviv and the Representative Office of India in Palestine on 07 October issued advisories asking Indian nationals on respective sides to remain vigilant and directly contact the Office in case of an emergency. ■

Very rarely, leaders like Pandit Deendayal Upadhyay, who possess all the qualities of leadership and live a simple life, risk everything for Maa Bharati. Referring to the personality of Pandit Deendayal Upadhyay, he said that along with being a thinker, he was also a skilled organisational leader.

BJP National President said that according to Pandit Deen Dayal Upadhyay ji, our economic policies should be such that their benefits can reach even those standing at the bottom of society. Pandit Upadhyay ji also gave the mantra of 'Integral Humanism'. Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi worked to take this forward and implemented it through 'Antyodaya' and 'Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas'.

memorial of Pandit Deendayal Upadhyaya. I had the privilege to spend some time there today and would urge all of you to take some time out to visit the place, he told the Karyakartas.

encourage our dedicated Karyakartas to incorporate Deendayal Ji's seven sutras into their lives. Today, let us once again reflect upon these sutras. These sutras are service, balance, restraint, coordination, positivity, compassion and communication."

He went on to emphasize, "In all the schemes running in the country today, the spirit of service, coordination and compassion of our Karyakartas can further increase their impact. If our Karyakartas wholeheartedly connect with the joys and sorrows of the people through a spirit of service, it will provide new vigor to the expansion of these schemes.”

Speaking to the Karyakartas, Shri Modi brought up the historic passage of the Women’s Reservation Bill in Parliament, saying, “There cannot be democratic integration without the involvement of women in politics. The passage of the women’s reservation Bill marks the victory of the BJP’s ideology,” the PM said.

The Prime Minister also invoked the success of the G20 summit and the country’s lunar landing mission, Chandrayaan-3.

Shri Modi said, “Today, India is shedding its colonial legacy and changing its global image by showcasing its capabilities. After the success of Chandrayaan-3, leading nations across the globe lauded the country’s strides in the field of science and marvelled at the ability of the common Indians. Also, the global praise that our country earned after the successful hosting of the G20 summit filled the hearts of all fellow citizens with pride. It has further enhanced the prestige of all fellow countrymen in the eyes of the world”.

PM Shri Modi said to achieve this position, India did not have to change its identity and its values. Rather, we presented Indian culture to the world with full pride. This is the dream of Deendayal ji, which we are fulfilling today. “When a government sets big goals and takes everyone along in achieving them, the scale of the success is that much more. The success of the people makes us more proud than individual success,” he added.

Concluding his speech, Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi remarked, “It is now our duty to elevate our efforts to their pinnacle during this Amrit Kaal. It is our solemn responsibility to construct the golden future for India, a vision cherished by stalwarts like Upadhyaya Ji.”

Bringing soil from every house, every village, and every municipality; planting 75 trees in every district and every panchayat; honouring the martyrs; installing plaques in their honour in every village; building Amrit Vatika—this is a programme that is directly related to patriotism and connects people emotionally. This programme will reach from the district to the state level and then to Delhi. A tree plantation programme also took place in every village.

Shri Nadda said that the 'Meri Maati, Mera Desh' programme has also been linked to the environment. Just a few days ago, a mountain of sorrows had fallen upon her. We all salute such brave women. Our effort is that no martyr should be left behind in any village; they should be given due respect, whether they have sacrificed their lives for the security of the country while in the army or have sacrificed their lives while being in the paramilitary or for the welfare of the society while in the police. Martyrs are being honoured in every village, and plaques are being installed in their honour so that the coming generations can learn from their bravery and join hands in nation building. 'Prof. Swaminathan's unyielding commitment and foresight ushered a new era of agricultural prosperity'

Prof. M.S. Swaminathan loved India and wanted our nation, and our farmers in particular, to lead a life of prosperity. Academically brilliant, he could have chosen any career but he was so impacted by the Bengal famine of 1943 that he was clear that if there is one thing he would do, it would be to study agriculture

NARENDRA MODI

A few days ago we lost Professor M.S. Swaminathan. Our nation lost a visionary who revolutionised agricultural science, a stalwart whose contribution to India will always be etched in golden letters. Prof. M.S. Swaminathan loved India and wanted our nation, and our farmers in particular, to lead a life of prosperity. Academically brilliant, he could have chosen any career but he was so impacted by the Bengal famine of 1943 that he was clear that if there is one thing he would do, it would be to study agriculture.

At a relatively young age, he came in contact with Dr. Norman Borlaug and followed his work in great detail. In the 1950's, he was offered a faculty position in the US but he rejected it because he wanted to work in India and for India.

I want you all to think about the challenging circumstances in which he stood as a colossus, guiding our nation towards the path of self-sufficiency and self-confidence. In the first two decades since Independence, we were dealing with immense challenges and one of them was food shortages. In the early 1960s, India was grappling with the ominous shadows of famine and it is then that Prof. Swaminathan's unyielding commitment and foresight ushered a new era of agricultural prosperity. pioneering work in agriculture and specific sectors like wheat breeding led to a significant increase in wheat production, thus turning India from a food-deficient country into a self-sufficient nation. This tremendous achievement earned him the well deserved title of, "Father of the Indian Green Revolution."

The Green Revolution offered a glimpse of India's "Can Do Spirit" - that if we have a billion challenges, we also have a billion minds with the flame of innovation to overcome those challenges. Five decades after the Green Revolution began, Indian agriculture has become far more modern and progressive. But, the very foundations laid by Prof. Swaminathan can never be forgotten.

Over the years, he undertook pioneering research in combatting parasites affecting potato crops. His research also enabled potato crops to withstand cold weather. Today, the world is talking about Millets or Shree Anna as super foods but Prof. Swaminathan had encouraged discourse around millets since the 1990's.

My personal interactions with Prof. Swaminathan were extensive. They began after I took over as Chief Minister of Gujarat in 2001. During those days, Gujarat was not known for its agricultural prowess. Successive droughts and a super cyclone and an Earthquake had impacted the growth trajectory of the state. Among the many initiatives we launched, was the Soil Health Card, which enabled us to understand the soil better and address problems if they arose. It was in the context of this scheme that I met Prof. Swaminathan. He appreciated the scheme and also shared his valuable inputs for the same. His endorsement was enough to convince those who were sceptical about the scheme which would eventually set the stage for Gujarat's agricultural success.

Our interactions continued during my Chief Ministerial tenure and also when I took over as Prime Minister. I met him at the International Agro-Biodiversity Congress in 2016 and the next year in 2017, I launched a two-part book series written by him.

The Kural describes farmers as the pin that holds the world together because it is the farmers who sustain everyone. Prof. Swaminathan understood this principle very well. A lot of people call him a "Krishi Vaigyanik" – an Agricultural Scientist. But, I have always believed that he was even more. He was a true "Kisan Vaigyanik" – a Farmers' Scientist. In his heart there was a farmer. The success of his works is not restricted to their academic excellence; it lies in the impact they have had outside the laboratories, in the farms and the fields. His work narrowed the gap between scientific knowledge and its practical application. He consistently advocated for sustainable agriculture, emphasising the delicate balance between human advancement and ecological sustainability.

Here, I must also note Prof. Swaminathan's special emphasis on improving the lives of the small farmers and ensuring they also enjoy the fruits of innovation. He was particularly passionate about improving the lives of women farmers.

There is another aspect about Prof. M.S. Swaminathan which is remarkable - he stands tall as a paragon of innovation and mentorship. When he won the World Food Prize in 1987, the first recipient of this prestigious honour, he used the prize money to establish a not-for-profit research foundation. Till date, it undertakes extensive work across various sectors. He has nurtured countless minds, instilling in them a passion for learning and innovation. In a rapidly changing world, his life reminds us of the enduring power of knowledge, mentorship, and innovation. He was an institution builder as well, having to his credit many centres where vibrant research takes place. One of his stints was as Director, International Rice Research Institute, Manila. The South Asia Regional Centre of International Rice Research Institute was opened in Varanasi in 2018.

I will again cite The Kural to pay tributes to Dr. Swaminathan. It is written there, "If those who have planned have firmness, they will attain what they have desired the way they have desired." Here was a stalwart who decided early on in his life that he wants to strengthen agriculture and serve farmers. And, he did it exceptionally innovatively and passionately. Dr. Swaminathan's contributions continue to inspire and guide us as we navigate the path of agricultural innovation and sustainability. We must also keep reaffirming our commitment to the principles he held dear, championing the cause of farmers and ensuring the fruits of scientific innovation reach the roots of our agricultural expanse, fostering growth, sustainability, and prosperity for generations to come. ■

AMIT SHAH

Bharat is a nation empowered by women. Their care, compassion, and ingenuity have not only shaped individuals and our society but also the edifice of our glorious cultural heritage.

In the Vedic era, a period of profound intellectual and spiritual emancipation, rishikas made significant contributions to the evolution of thought and wisdom. Gargi Vachaknavi, a philosopher of that period, is widely cited for her nuanced debates on the nature of reality and the soul, with sage Yajnavalkya. The erudite Maitreyi's understanding of Upanishads still guides scholars, and Yami was an early proponent of the concept of 'dharma', which still resonates in Indian society.

The strides made by women in science, space exploration, and healthcare have made the world look at India with admiration in the present era. More than 80% nurses and midwives in India are women, who rendered unforgettable service as the first line of defence during the pandemic.

PM Modi, in his address to the G20 ministerial on women empowerment, highlighted the transformative role women have played in various fields. He laid the future trajectory for the nation and said, "In India, we are not limited to women's empowerment. Ours is a women-led development."

However, despite their proven transformative potential, women's political participation remains few and far between, globally. Bharat needs the unfettered contribution of women in policy and law-making to shape the nation the way PM Modi envisions in Amrit Kaal.

The role of the women's reservation bill comes into play in this particular vision of the PM. The bill, which paves the way for reservation of 33% of seats for women in Parliament and state assemblies, will unleash a new era of inclusive governance undoing major hindrances to their participation.

However, the context of the bill has to be understood along with its historicity. Rather than an isolated step, it is part of a structured effort to empower women in every strata of society.

In the last nine years, PM Modi has been a vocal advocate and a proactive mover of women-led development. Initiatives like Beti Bachao-Beti Padhao have improved sex ratio at birth and increased enrolment of girls in educational institutions. Scholarships provided by the Modi government have also been integral in ensuring quality education for girls.

Schemes like Pradhan Mantri Sukanya Samridhi Yojana and Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana have significantly contributed to the financial security and inclusion of 30 crore women. Collateral-free loans through Mudra Yojana have empowered 40 crore women to capitalise on their entrepreneurship prowess.

In fact, the nine years of the Modi government have been a tribute to womanhood. The dispensation has not only catered to socio-economic needs of women but also to their sensibilities by insulating them from the pangs of destitution through a well-structured welfare mechanism.

When families can't afford necessities like food, a home, medicines, and potable water, it is the woman in the family who is pained the most. The Modi government has shielded them from the scourge of poverty by providing 2.9 crore poor women homes, with proprietary rights, food grains to 80 crore poor, 11 crore water supply connections, and health insurance to 50 crore beneficiaries.

The 9.6 crore gas connections issued by the Modi government under the Ujjwala scheme rids poor women of domestic pollution that causes many prolonged illnesses.

With the Maternity Benefit (Amendment) Bill, 2017, the dispensation provided comforting relief to working women by increasing the maximum period of paid maternity leave to 26 weeks. Dismantling established gender stereotypes, the Modi government made women officers in the army eligible for permanent commission for the first time in history.

On account of these disruptive changes ushered in by the PM, today India has women fighter jet pilots for the first time in its history. It is also for the first time in our nation's history that 15% of seats for pilots in cockpits of commercial flying machines are occupied by women, when the global record is merely 5%.

All such milestones reached in the last nine years in facilitating a transformative change in the lives of 50% of the nation's population remind me of the proverbial saying, 'Where there is a will, there's a way.'

The 9.6 crore gas connections issued by the Modi government under the Ujjwala scheme rids poor women of domestic pollution that causes many prolonged illnesses

Sadly, glaring issues in the lives of this vast population hardly ever occupied centre stage in the nation's political discourse earlier. There was no dearth of seasonal lip service from Congress during electioneering. But the apathy was laid bare once election season was over. There was no reluctance on the part of Congress to walk out from Parliament when the fate of millions of women was being decided through the debate on triple talaq. The party's decision not to support the candidature of Droupadi Murmu in the last election for the highest constitutional post in India and rather attempting to foil her victory by throwing its support behind the opposition candidate, was a clear enough hint that women empowerment was never on its agenda.

In stark contrast, the Modi government's success in converting the long-pending bill for women's reservation into legislation is a formidable example of its iron-willed commitment to the same.

Globally, the active participation of women in government has enhanced the legitimacy of emerging institutions, reduced corruption, and promoted consultative policymaking. Countries with high female representation in parliament, like the Nordic nations, have carved imitable paths in this direction. India, too, must prioritise gender equality and social inclusion through equal representation.

With the women's reservation bill, PM Modi has aptly laid the robust foundation of a more inclusive parliamentary democracy in Amrit Kaal where women are heard more, and their issues are debated with more vehemence. ■

NARI SHAKTI IN NEW INDIA

When it comes to matters concerning women, our government refrains from doing politics. This is a matter of unwavering commitment for the Prime Minister, and as such, we have taken resolute actions whether it's regarding Article 370, Triple Talaq, or now the Women's Reservation Bill

SITHARAMAN

The Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam (Women's Reservation Bill) is a pivotal instrument for achieving political empowerment. When it comes to matters concerning women, our government refrains from doing politics. This is a matter of unwavering commitment for the Prime Minister, and as such, we have taken resolute actions whether it's regarding Article 370, Triple Talaq, or now the Women's Reservation Bill. Women, when given the same access and opportunities, can excel in the political arena just as our women scientists have excelled at ISRO.

Over the past nine years, under the visionary leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, India has pivoted towards a paradigm of 'women-led development'. The outcomes of these empowerment initiatives are evident, ushering in a transformative change in the nation's social fabric.

The Modi government's efforts to empower women through initiatives such as Ujjwala Yojana, Swachhata Abhiyan, Beti Bachao Beti Padhao, MUDRA Yojana, increasing maternity leave, and permanent commissioning of women in the Armed Forces are visible to all. Around 70 per cent of loans under the PM MUDRA Yojana have been sanctioned to women. These are loans up to Rs 1 million to support micro-level units and those self-employed. Similarly, 80 per cent of beneficiaries under Stand-Up India are women.

For the Modi government, ensuring a life of dignity for women stands as an unwavering commitment. This dedication is evident in the expanded adoption of LPG cylinders under the Ujjwala Yojana, safeguarding millions of women from chronic respiratory disorders by promoting smoke-free kitchens.

For the Modi government, ensuring a life of dignity for women stands as an unwavering commitment. This dedication is evident in the expanded adoption of LPG cylinders under the Ujjwala Yojana, safeguarding millions of women from chronic respiratory disorders by promoting smoke-free kitchens

Furthermore, with the success of the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan, countless women now have access to toilets in their homes, easing concerns over their safety and preserving their dignity. Women got joint ownership of houses made under PM Awas Yojana (PMAY).

Over the past nine years under the Modi government, women have surged ahead with notable accomplishments. This progress is evident in the increased representation of female police personnel, accolades secured by our sportswomen on international platforms, and the rising enrolment of women in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) disciplines. Since 2014, female participation in technical education, especially in the Industrial Training Institutes (ITIs), has doubled. Remarkably, nearly 43 per cent of STEM graduates in India are women. About a quarter of space scientists in India are women whose dedication and hard work have been instrumental in the nation's flagship space missions, including Chandrayaan, Gaganyaan, and Mission Mars.

Today, more women are enrolling in higher education than men in India. We also have one of the highest numbers of women pilots in civil aviation. And female pilots in the Indian Air Force are now flying fighter aircraft. The Modi government has reserved posts for women in the CAPFs (Central Armed Police Forces) and allowed the admission of girls in the premier National Defence Academy (NDA) and Sainik Schools. Women fighters now stand to serve as "Amrit Rakshaks" in the "Amrit Kaal" as envisioned by PM Modi.

The right to vote and contest elections was granted to women in India since the beginning. About 1.4 million, that is 46 per cent of elected representatives in rural local bodies in India, are women. Indian women and their empowerment are playing a big role in pushing the country's growth.

Our government recently convened a special session to inaugurate the new Parliament building — a symbol of a New India. We envisioned this Parliament embarking on its journey by addressing one of the most pivotal bills in its history. This auspicious start aligns with a building designed to serve the nation for the coming century. PM Modi has aptly stated that success cannot be achieved if 50 per cent of the population, which comprises women, remains confined to their homes. As India propels itself to become a dominant global economic force, the role of women in contributing to the nation's growth becomes increasingly indispensable with each passing day.

The Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam is historic legislation, which will further boost women's empowerment and enable even greater participation of women in our political and governance processes. With the enactment of the legislation, India positions itself on the brink of a more radiant and inclusive tomorrow, with our Nari Shakti at the heart of this transformation. This transformative journey also signifies a paradigm shift in societal perceptions — where women are no longer merely beneficiaries but are active contributors and shapers of the nation's destiny.

The path has been challenging, the battle prolonged, but finally, Nari Shakti has emerged triumphant. In this moment of success, it's crucial to acknowledge former Prime Minister PV Narasimha Rao's government for introducing 33 per cent reservation in the Panchayati Raj system. This initiative has led to an upsurge in women's participation, with many states even increasing the reservation to 50 per cent at the grassroots level.

This focus on women-led development is not a mere political strategy but a deeply embedded ethos. The government, under the leadership of PM Modi, has internalised the principle that a nation's growth is inextricably linked to the growth of its women. This commitment is reflected in the myriad of policies and initiatives launched over the past nine years, and the results are profound.

As a party, the BJP has consistently championed women's reservation. We represent empowered women, and our party, along with our Prime Minister, has empowered us all. Rashrapati Droupadi Murmu stands as a shining example of an empowered woman, and every female MP of our party embodies empowerment. Our elected women representatives will undoubtedly enhance the quality of parliamentary debates, influence law and policy making, and contribute positively to governance for the greater good of all Indians.

We must remember that empowering women means empowering a nation. When women thrive, societies prosper. As we stand at this significant juncture, it's not just about celebrating the milestones achieved but also about looking forward to the limitless possibilities that lie ahead. India is setting an example on the global stage, showcasing that with commitment, vision, and action, gender barriers can be overcome, making way for a more inclusive, prosperous, and balanced future.

The essence of the Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam and similar initiatives signifies hope, progress, and a promise of a brighter future for all. It's a clarion call for the entire nation to rally together and ensure that the winds of change, set in motion, continue for generations to come. ■

Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam will set the tone for women-led development

The first legislative agenda of the new Parliament building has set the tone for women-led development as a way forward for the nation. The Modi government has shown zeal to turn this sankalp into siddhi

ARJUN RAM
MEGHWAL

In a democratic setup, a consensual decision carries a special significance for any remarkable change. It reflects the collective spirit of the transformational journey. Recently, Bharat has witnessed historic decisions of global resonance — one is the building of consensus on the Delhi Declaration as part of the G20 presidency, the other is the passing of Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam. At a time when global geopolitics is beset with multi-pronged turmoil, these are jewels in the crown of the mother of democracy.

The first legislative agenda of the new Parliament building has set the tone for women-led development as a way forward for the nation. The Modi government has shown zeal to turn this sankalp into siddhi.

This has been a 27-year-long journey to give women their due share in representative democracy. In a very simplistic manner, the existing minimal share of nari shakti, which constitutes half the population, was a lacuna. Social dynamics had made women a mere decision-adherer rather than a decision-maker to some extent. Numerous exceptions are there to counter this view: Women have broken the glass ceiling and have made the nation proud in every sphere. Now, the Narendra Modi government has prioritised this moral choice and showcased a strong will to correct this historical lacuna. The gender justice proposed by the

It is ironic that the US took 144 years to give equal voting rights to women after its independence. It took nearly a century of persuasion, protest and a World War to facilitate women's suffrage in the UK. Our forefathers were visionary and ensured women's voting rights immediately after Independence

Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam in the legislative domain will provide impetus to balanced policy formulation.

It is ironic that the US took 144 years to give equal voting rights to women after its independence. It took nearly a century of persuasion, protest and a World War to facilitate women's suffrage in the UK. Our forefathers were visionary and ensured women's voting rights immediately after Independence. Now, after the 75th year of Independence, marking the era of Amrit Kaal, Bharat has taken a forward leap from that right to vote to extend women's share of the right to represent in Parliament and legislative assemblies.

During the historic November 25, 1949, speech, Dr BR Ambedkar categorically asked how long one would continue to live a life of contradictions. He cautioned about social and economic inequalities. Over the last nine years, pro-poor and people-centric moves have resolved those contradictions. A testimony to this is the fact that more than 13.5 crore people have come out of poverty. The historic Nari Shakti Vandan Bill is another step to realise the spirit of one person, one vote and one value.

From another perspective, Indian philosophical values say that the perfect balance of feminine and masculine traits leads to a state of self-actualisation by bringing internal peace, harmony and individual fulfilment. It is up to us to utilise the natural potential of female sorority for the collective fulfilment and welfare of humanity.

Women's innate qualities of perseverance, creativity, sacrifice, dedication, resilience and trust make the best ingredients for a leadership role without even taking leadership course certification from top management schools and universities. Just letting them have their rightful space will lead to enormous capacity-building and be a perfect model for others to emulate.

The Constitution (One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Amendment) Act is not a political step for the Modi government, but it is an article of faith. In July 2003, the BJP passed a resolution for women's reservation in Parliament and state legislature at its national executive committee meeting at Raipur. Later, the Party executed this at the organisation level, and included it in its manifesto. Now, it has become an instrument of change for the entire nation. Calling a special session of Parliament and onboarding all political parties for a consensus-based decision was a Herculean task, which the government has done meticulously. For a few parties, who had opposed this noble cause earlier, their nod to it is not by choice but out of their political compulsion. The old Parliament building witnessed the Constitution-making exercise and transfer of power from the British, this new temple of democracy has marked further progressive sharing of that power under the umbrella of our Constitution.

The recently concluded G20 presidency has proved that Bharat matters a lot in amicably resolving global challenges. India is on the verge of becoming the third largest economy in the world and, parallelly, the nation will surpass the global average (26.7 per cent) of the percentage of women in national Parliament. Increasing their share from 15 per cent to 33 per cent will take it far ahead of many developed nations. Such profound measures will re-orient the nation's outlook to become a women-led 21st-century leader.

For the implementation of provisions of this Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam, the prerequisite constitutional obligation under Article 82 mandates prior census and delimitation exercise to identify women-led constituencies. The Modi government is committed to implementing it in accordance with this constitutional spirit. However, the pulse of change is being felt across the nation. The much-needed shift from a patriarchal mindset has gained currency. Let's embrace this brighter era of thriving nari shakti leadership for building a developed Bharat. ■

India proved the mettle of her leadership by making African Union a full member of G-20: PM

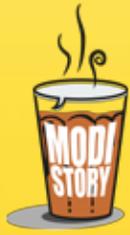

Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi on September 24 addressed the nation through 105th episode of his radio programme Mann Ki Baat. In his address he said, India has proved the mettle of her leadership by making African Union a full member of G-20. Here, we are publishing highlights of the address for esteemed readers:

- My family members, after the success of Chandrayaan-3, the grand hosting of G-20 doubled the joy of every Indian. Bharat Mandapam has turned out to be a celebrity in itself. People are taking selfies with it and also posting them with pride. In this summit, India has proved the mettle of her leadership by making African Union a full member of G-20. You must be aware that during the time when India was very prosperous, the Silk Route was a part of discourse in our country and in the world. This Silk Route was a major medium of business and trade. Now in modern times, India has suggested another Economic Corridor in G-20. This is the India-Middle East-Europe Economic Corridor. This corridor is going to become the basis of world trade for hundreds of years to come, and history will always remember that this corridor was initiated on Indian soil.
- My family members, two days from now, the 27th September, is 'World Tourism Day'. Some people view tourism just as a means of touring and travelling, but a very big aspect of tourism is related to employment.
- The fascination towards India has risen a lot in the last few years and after the successful organization of G-20, the interest of the people of the world towards India has grown further.
- The Hoysala temples of Karnataka, which have been included in the UNESCO World Heritage List, are known for their excellent architecture of the 13th century. These temples getting recognition from UNESCO is also an honor to the Indian tradition of temple building.
- My dear family members, in our country education is always seen as a service. I have come to know about some youth of Uttarakhand, who are working for the education of children with the same spirit. Some youth in Nainital district have started unique 'Ghoda Library' for children. The biggest feature of this library is that books are reaching children even in the most remote areas and not only this, the service is absolutely free. Till now 12 villages of Nainital have been covered through this. Local people are also coming forward to help in this noble cause related to children's education.

- Friends, it is true that today's era is of Digital Technology and E-Books, but still books always play the role of a good friend in our lives. Hence, we should motivate children to read books.
- My dear family members, this AzadiKaAmritKaal is also the period of duty for every citizen of the country. Only by performing our duties can we achieve our goals and reach our destination. In Sambhal UP, the country has seen such an example of sense of duty, which I want to share with you too. Just imagine...more than 70 villages, population of thousands and all the people coming together and uniting to achieve one goal...this rarely happens, but the people of Sambhal have by walking on the path of duty, you too can become the medium of many such changes around you. ■

Breaking the Silos

By: Anandiben Patel

PM Modi Story

Shri Narendra Modi had always believed in the mantra of 'Sabka Prayas.' When he took over as Chief Minister of Gujarat in 2001, one of his primary concerns was that the officials worked in silos till then.

In one of his speeches addressing the bureaucrats, he had said, "I don't expect you to work in silos". Shri Modi then explained that you are presently here in one department, but tomorrow you may be in another department with one of your colleagues sitting next to you. So, if you interact with the fellow colleague and understand his challenges, tomorrow you can avoid facing those same challenges when you are there in that department. Quoting his example, Shri Modi said, "I don't work in silos and I expect the same from the officials too."

Smt. Anandiben Patel, Governor of Uttar Pradesh recall her days in Gujarat when she served as a minister. "I remember our first 3-day Chintan Shivir in Bharuch. We were supposed to work and prepare the blueprint for coming one year. All the ministers and secretaries were present in that shivir. Earlier, we were used

Normally, ministers and secretaries never really got this much time and opportunity to interact with each other, but during that time they not only interacted but also got to know a lot about each other to leave after the Chintan Shivir was over. But this time all the ministers were informed from the Chief Minister Office that they need to get together in the Gandhinagar Circuit House at 8 am on the following morning. All of us were supposed to carry our luggage and we had to travel together in a luxury bus and not by our personal cars. Ministers and secretaries were supposed to travel together."

All the ministers and secretaries travelled to Bharuch together and it took them around 3-4 hours. Surprisingly, all of them felt really good. Normally, ministers and secretaries never really got this much time and opportunity to interact with each other, but during that time they not only interacted but also got to know a lot about each other.

"So, this relationship that we developed holds a significant value as we get to know about the likes and dislikes of the people we are travelling with. Due to CM Shri Modi's idea, we got the chance to break free from protocols as we had to sit wherever we got seats in the buses," says Smt. Anandiben Patel. ■

LPG gas cylinder price cut for Ujjwala beneficiaries

Now LPG cylinder under the Ujjwala scheme will be available at Rs 603

Union minister Shri Anurag Thakur informed on 04 October, 2023 that the Union Government has raised the subsidy amount for Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana (PMUY) beneficiaries from Rs 200 to Rs 300 per LPG cylinder. He informed this during a briefing on Cabinet decisions.

Earlier, with a subsidy of Rs 200, the price of subsidised LPG cylinder was Rs 703. Now, with the subsidy being further increased by another Rs 100, the price for the subsidised LPG cylinder under the Ujjwala scheme would come down to Rs 603.

Informing this, Anurag Thakur

said, "During the past nine years, a lot of development work has been done for the welfare of women and the poor. Last month, on the eve of Rakshabandhan, when the prices of domestic LPG were reduced by Rs 200, it reached about Rs 900. However, for the Ujjwala beneficiaries, it was Rs 700," he added.

Ujjwala beneficiaries currently pay Rs 703 per 14.2-kg cylinder as against the market price of Rs 903. After the decision of the Union Cabinet, they will now pay Rs 603. The Union Cabinet had in August cut LPG domestic gas cylinder prices by Rs 200 for all consumers.

The Union Government had last month approved the release of Rs 1,650 crore to oil marketing companies towards providing 75 lakh LPG connections under the Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana. With the provision for an additional 75 lakh Ujjwala connections, the total number of beneficiaries under the PMUY scheme has now increased to 10.35 crores. ■
